Hidden Ray (Skarsgård), Claire (Riseborough) and their seven-year-old daughter, Zoe, are an average American family in Kingsville, North Carolina - except they have existed in a bomb shelter since escaping a day of devastation that changed everything. For 301 days, they have transformed their cement prison into a home, holding on to memories of the past and hope for a normal life someday. And for 301 days, the family has eluded what looms above the surface - the heavy breathing and booming footsteps that punctuate the night, threatening their fragile existence. All the while, the family has managed to stay hidden. Until now. Now their safe haven has been breached... and something is coming for them. Warner

Dumb It Down Over the years, mainstream media and pop culture created a stigma that looks down upon being intelligent. In today's society, "being cool" is actually the opposite of being intelligent, and essentially certain entertainers "dumb down" their intelligence for ratings and record sales. Dumb It Down exposes the entertainment industry for forcing prominent African American celebrities to tone down their intelligence in order to maintain relevance. Cinedigm

Red vs Blue Season 13 The Sim-troopers of Blood Gulch have seen their fair share of insanity over the years, but they've never faced anything quite like this. Stranded on the planet Chorus, the Reds and Blues must convince two enemy armies to join forces or suffer complete annihilation at the hands of a bloodthirsty war lord. As the final installment in the critically acclaimed Chorus Trilogy, Red Vs. Blue: Season 13 is as hilarious as it is thrilling. Between deadly mercenaries, alien artifacts and old rivalries, our hapless heroes are in for the fight of their lives in the longest running sci-fi/comedy series in American history. Stars Geoff Ramsey, Gus Sorola, Dan Godwin, Matt Hullum Cinedigm

Tut Thrust into power after the murder of his father, King Tutankhamun is forced to marry his strong-willed, ambitious sister in order to maintain the dynasty. In love with a commoner, he struggles to protect her from the jealous queen. And although Tut rules as Pharaoh, he is exploited by a shrewd Grand Vizier, a ruthless military General and a scheming High Priest who look down on him as someone they can control. But through unexpected twists and turns, Tut strives to overcome the odds, rising from a manipulated prince into an unlikely hero who triumphs over his enemies both from within and without leading his kingdom to glory. Bon Voyage, Charlie Brown (And Don't Come Back) Grab your passport and pack your bags... Bon Voyage, Charlie Brown (and don't come back!!) takes the Peanuts gang on their first international jaunt. Charlie Brown, Linus, Peppermint Patty and Marci are chosen as - you guessed it! - exchange students, destined to spend two weeks in France. Of course, Snoopy and Woodstock join the French odyssey, which turns out to be a combination of mystery, intrigue, and romance coupled with the usual misadventures that seem to follow Charlie Brown wherever he goes! Paramount

The American Dreamer Dennis Hopper, who has been seen onscreen in small roles from the mid-50s, hit paydirt in Easy Rider, released in 1969. Aimed at the audience that attended Easy Rider, American Dreamer is a documentary biography of Dennis Hopper. While this film is intended to look like it used cameras so ubiquitous that their subject has forgotten them (enabling them to reveal the "real life" of their subject), at no point does Mr. Hopper fail to take them into account. Nonetheless, a good deal of at least historical interest is shown, including an expression of his philosophy of life at the time, and one encounter in which he brings a fuzzy-minded young woman back down to earth with a thud. Etiquette Pictures

Northern Limit Line As the people of South Korea are whipped into a frenzy for a World Cup match, North Korea attacks one of their patrolling boats on the disputed Northern Limit border at sea, sparking the Second Battle of Yeonpyeong in 2002 in this war docudrama from director Kim Hak-soon, and featuring interviews with survivors from the battle Well Go

Escobar Paradise Lost stars Josh Hutcherson as Nick, an American who opens a surf shop in Colombia. Nick begins dating a young woman, who turns out to be the niece of the feared and powerful drug lord Pablo Escobar (Benicio Del Toro). When Nick gets involved in a feud with a rival store, Escobar puts a definitive end to the dispute, and soon the young man finds himself drawn into Escobar's world of crime, power, and hedonism. Eventually, he must decide what he is willing to do in order to keep this new lifestyle. Starz/Anchor Bay

Nocturna It's Christmas in New Orleans and children are mysteriously disappearing, vanishing without a trace. Detectives find a young girl in the swamps and she leads them to the den of her captors... a group of merciless vampires who feed on the blood of children. Millennium

Kindness is Contagious What is "nice"? This collection of interviews, interspersed with new behavioral science about the social benefits of kindness, offers proof that being nice is actually good for us. Kindness Is Contagious is a feel-good documentary by David Gaz, narrated by Catherine Ryan Hyde, the best selling author of the novel (and film) Pay It Forward. It's a film all about being nice and the benefits of being nice. Kindness Is Contagious profiles cutting-edge scientists and best-selling authors from Berkeley to Harvard and everywhere in between as well as real life people from all walks of life whose lives illustrate their incredible discovery.
