Place Out Of Time: The Bordentown School Ironically, although the Supreme Court's 1955 Brown v. Board of Education decision embodied a massive leap forward in the crusade for human rights, racial integration and equality, it had at least one unforeseen drawback: it resulted in the immediate closure of a remarkable institution known as the Bordentown School. Located in Bordentown, New Jersey, this educational institution taught values, self-discipline and life skills to African American children of many generations. As produced by Hudson West Productions and originally aired on PBS, the documentary Place Out Of Time carries audiences inside of the Bordentown School for a look at its many remarkable accomplishments. PBS

Harp Dreams Actress Blythe Danner narrates this intimate documentary look at the struggles and challenges that belie young harpists' quests for recognition as world-class musicians. The film hones in on 31 of the most acclaimed harpists in the world, who in 2007 gathered for 15 days at the Indiana University Jacobs School of music, to vie with one another in the USA International Harp Competition, an event held every three years. The rewards associated with winning the competition are staggering: a cash prize of several thousand dollars; a handcrafted Lyon-and-Healy concert harp; an elite recording contract; and concert premieres in London and New York. Suzanne Schwabs directs, initially shuttling her focus back and forth between intimate events from the lives of the competitors, such as a birthday party in Moscow and a Parisian private lesson. The remainder of the film then observes the competition itself, and the events leading up to announcement of the winners. PBS

Seeing, Searching, Being William Segal Acclaimed filmmaker Ken Burns directs this engrossing documentary trilogy about the life and work of writer, philosopher, painter and publisher William Segal, a lifelong student of Eastern thought and Western spiritual traditions. The first film in the series shadows Segal in his home art studio; the second follows him to the Vézelay basilica in France; the third accompanies him on the streets of Paris as he prepares for a gallery exhibition. PBS

Breakfast Special Breakfast is the star of the show -- in addition to being the most important meal of the day -- in this road-tripping documentary that takes hungry viewers to some of the best early-morning eating spots in the country. Highlights include tastes of authentic Cuban dishes in Florida, deep-fried servings of meaty Scotch eggs in Oregon and heaping portions of traditional Southern grits in North Carolina. PBS

Addicted to Her Love Jonah Brand (John Patrick Amedori) isn't necessarily the type of guy who would interest ultra-hot Sara Weller (Lizzy Caplan). But when she and her friends find out he works at a pharmacy, they charm him into their circle and gain his trust with manipulative fawning. Jonah knows he's playing with danger, but it's tough to resist the game. Daryl Hannah and D.J. Cotrona co-star in this grizzly tale of addiction and obsession. Barnholtz

Sons of Anarchy Season 2 Hang on for this high-octane thrill ride that goes even deeper into the gritty world of an outlaw biker gang! Reeling from the combined pressure of an ATF crackdown and an unprovoked murder, the Sons face a far more deadly threat from a cold-blooded enemy who will stop at nothing to drive them out of Charming-for good. As Jax and Clay square off over questions of leadership and loyalty, lines are drawn and chaos reigns as the club threatens to destroy itself-from the inside out. In the second season of this hit series set in California, Charlie Hunnam returns as Jax Teller, a father torn between devotion to his young child and loyalty to his vigilante biker gang, the Sons of Anarchy. As Jax's parents (Katey Sagal and Ron Perlman) lead the gang deeper into violence, the club encounters new foes, including white supremacist Ethan Zobelle (Adam Arkin) and deadly rival A.J. Weston (Henry Rollins). Fox

The Next Hit Hip-hop can be a dangerous game particularly if a record company decides to boost sales by putting out a murder contract on its biggest star. Unfortunately for rapper Rod (Fredro Starr) and his girlfriend (Lark Voorhies), they're stuck in the middle of it. The cutthroat music industry shenanigans begin in the flashy world of Miami's South Beach and continue until a war is ignited between the nation's major hip-hop empires. Barnholtz

American Cowslip: A Redneck Comedy An agoraphobic heroin addict seeks redemption by growing the rare and beautiful flower that will help him win the town's Garden of the Year contest in this off-beat black comedy featuring Rip Torn, Val Kilmer, Bruce Dern, and Cloris Leachman. Ethan Inglebrink (Ronnie Gene Blevins) lives in a homogeneous California town where nothing ever happens. A misfit clad in a powder-blue tux, he's convinced his poker buddies and surrogate moms Roe (Diane Ladd), Sandy (Leachman), and Lou Anne (Lin Shaye) that he's a diabetic, and his needles are for insulin rather than heroin. His next-door neighbor is his landlord and former high school football coach Trevor O'Hart (Torn), who wants nothing more than to kick Ethan out on the street. Complicating matters even further is that fact that Ethan's older brother Todd (Kilmer), the local sheriff, is convinced that his brother can only be saved by an act of God, and recruits the family priest (Peter Falk) to get the job done. Meanwhile, as the Garden of the Year competition draws near, Ethan becomes convinced that he can take the 10,000-dollar top prize and pay off his delinquent rent if he can just grow the perfect American Cowslip. Little does Ethan realize that salvation may lie not in the money he could win for growing a rare flower, but with the kind companionship and understanding offered by his 17-year-old neighbor Georgia (Hanna Hall), who longs to escape her abusive father. Barnholtz

A Sense of Wonder Groundbreaking environmentalist Rachel Carson published her revolutionary tome Silent Spring in 1962, a mere two years before her death from cancer at the relatively young age of 56. In the interim, Carson - who sustained a reputation as a deliberately private and reclusive woman - was forced into an uncomfortable public role as a critic of the use of carcinogenic pesticides. This deeply intimate documentary finds the woman reacting with a mixture of anger and drollness to the attacks against her by the press, the United States government and various chemical producers. Special features include "A Visit with Roger," "A Visit with Stewart Udall," and a segment titled "Lessons from Carson and Challenges Ahead." PBS

The New Recruits Is charging poor people for food, medicine, and shelter the key to ending world poverty? Find out with The New Recruits, a battalion of jet-setting idealists who journey to the world's most volatile and war-torn regions to effect social change through business acumen PBS

Secrets To Love Do you wonder what happened to that Leave It to Beaver fantasy? For some people, marriage brings a cold dose of reality. The fantasy dissolves away and we are stuck asking ourselves how can we have a relationship that is healthy and happy like we envisioned? In Secrets to Love: A Journey to Find the Happily Ever After, Director Tracie Donahue searches for the answers to finding (and maintaining) a healthy, happy love, by asking real couples and relationship experts the most important questions. What draws us to people? How has marriage changed over the years and what does that mean for us today? Do certain communication patterns contribute to the breakdown of relationships? How do skills such as empathy contribute to a healthy, functioning relationship and can these skills be taught? This is a film about how real couples learned to get the marriage and relationship they hoped for. It all starts at home but if applied globally, just think where it could lead? PBS

Sutures A group of longtime friends converge on a fatal course with destiny when they cross paths with Alexander Tatum, a mercenary surgeon. He is a hunter with the keen skill of one who has also been hunted. Prey turned predator. The victims quickly realize that Alexander is just the beginning of their problems, as they find themselves enmeshed in a fight for survival against a sociopath business man and his demonic staff, who will stop at nothing to prevail in the sale of Black Market Body Parts. MTI

Say Goodnight Overflowing with bad advice, intimate stumbling, and the raunchy humor guys think women don't know goes on behind their back, three guys tell a friend stories of how they met the loves of their lives, and how they managed to completely screw it up. With a young, hot ensemble cast starring Aaron Paul (Breaking Bad), Carly Pope, Shannon Lucio, Smith Cho, Rob Benedict, David Monahan and Christopher Gessner, Say Goodnight takes you on a pulsating ride through everything we love, hate - and love again - about sex and dating. MTI

The Wounded Platoon The municipality of Colorado Springs, Colorado - an apparently charming community situated about an hour south of Denver - might seem an unlikely source of mass tumult. But the city in fact bears a dark connection to the Iraq War of the early 21st Century. A U.S. Army base called Fort Carson is situated in the immediate vicinity, and witnessed the suicides of 36 servicemen and 11 homicides during the Iraq War period. And nearly all of those slayings emerged from the same U.S.A.F. unit: Third Platoon, Charlie Company, 1st Battalion of the 506th Infantry. But what events transpired in this unit to account for such horrors? As produced for the groundbreaking WGBH series Frontline and originally aired on PBS, this documentary program concurrently relays the horrifying tale of this drug and alcohol-riddled platoon, and asks unflinching, incisive questions about the mental, emotional and psychological impact of the Iraq War on ordinary young Americans - questions which lead to the inescapable conclusion that post-traumatic stress and repeat military tours of duty may returning an entire generation of servicemen to the homefront as deeply confused and tortured instruments of destruction. PBS
