Blades of Glory Two comedic heavy hitters, Will Ferrell (Anchorman: The Legend Of Ron Burgundy) and Jon Heder (Napoleon Dynamite), join forces to push the boundaries of slapstick with their ice-skating farce, Blades Of Glory. Rival skaters Chazz Michael Michaels (Ferrell) and Jimmy MacElroy (Heder) begrudgingly set out to attempt a historical comeback in the pair-skating program after being banned in the men's figure skating category after an unsportsmanlike scuffle. MacElroy's former coach (Craig T. Nelson) provides them with the tough-love coaching they so desperately need. Despite their absurdity, the duo aren't previous award winners for nothing, and their combined talent threatens the position of fellow American skating champions--brother and sister pair-skating team Stranz and Fairchild Van Waldenberg, who are played by real-life husband and wife Will Arnett and Amy Poehler. But while Stranz and Fairchild Van Waldenberg may turn on the charm for their adoring public, they reveal their true colors as they connive to sabotage Michaels and MacElroy in their efforts to regain the championship. Ferrell's turn as the loud-talking, ego-swelling, hard-partying sex-addict skater is an abrasive and shrilling contrast to Heder's innocent, cherub-faced prodigal son. Poehler and Arnett are splendid as the biting antagonists, and demonstrate a masterful understanding of how to portray characters full of spite and self-indulgence. Blades Of Glory is full of gut-busting wisecracks and painfully funny imagery, and will undoubtedly leave fans hoping that Ferrell and Heder will team up again for more hilarity and outlandish entertainment. Paramount

South Park Season 10 What began as a construction-paper film short evolved into a veritable pop-culture phenomenon for Trey Parker and Matt Stone's outrageous animated comedy series South Park. Centered on the hilarious misadventures of four potty-mouthed grade-schoolers in the perpetually wintry environs of South Park, Colorado, the series skewers the vagaries of the modern American cultural landscape with politically incorrect humor and satirical plotlines ranging from homophobia and terrorism to boy bands and talking poo. This collection presents all 14 episodes from the long-running series' 10th season. Disc 1 disc includes the following episodes: "The Return of Chef," "Smug Alert!," "Cartoon Wars (Part 1)," "Cartoon Wars (Part 2)" and "A Million Little Fibers." Additional actors: April Stewart, Peter Serafinowicz, Adrien Beard, Juan Kimmelin, Kyle McCulloch, Dave Tennant, Jane Bussmann, Vernon Chatman, Nicole Draco. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Manbearpig," "Tsst," "Make Love, Not Warcraft," "Mystery of the Urinal Deuce" and "Miss Teacher Bangs a Boy." Additional Actors: April Stewart, Milan Agnone, Griffin Lennon, Adrien Beard, Kyle McCulloch, Jessie Thomas, Katharine Howell. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Hell on Earth 2006," "Go God Go," "Go God Go XII" and "Stanley's Cup." Additional Actors: April Stewart, Eldridge Hudson, Kyle McCulloch, Juan Kimmelin, Shane Stephenson, Timothy Napoli, Katharine Howell, Lance Ho. Paramount

The Odd Couple Second Season Their characters may have been brought to the big screen by Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau, but Tony Randall and Jack Klugman went on to match, and arguably surpass, their predecessors' portrayals with the classic 1970s television series The Odd Couple. Based on Neil Simon's hit Broadway play of the same name, the beloved sitcom chronicled the charmingly antagonistic friendship between neat freak Felix Unger (Randall) and carefree slob Oscar Madison (Klugman), whose polar-opposite personalities hilariously clashed after they became unwilling roommates following their respective divorces. Produced by TV impresario Garry Marshall, The Odd Couple stands as one of the true greats in television history. This collection presents the Emmy Award-winning series' second season in its entirety. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Natural Childbirth," "Felix's Wife's Boyfriend," "Hospital Mates," "Sleepwalker," "A Grave For Felix" and "Murray The Fink." Additional Actors: Hilary Thompson, Al Molinaro, Janis Hansen, Joan Hotchkis, Fred Bear, Peggy Doyle, Ivor Francis, Ken Sansom, Larry Gelman. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Does Your Mother Know You're Out, Rigoletto?," "The Fat Farm," "The Odd Couple Meet Their Host," "Win One For Felix," "Being Divorced Is Never Having To Say I Do" and "Surprise! Surprise!." Additional Actors: Annik Borel, Janice Carroll, Norbert Schiller, Frank Corsentino, David Steinberg, Willie Aames, Billy Sands, Brett Somers, Pamelyn Ferdin, Cindy Eilbacher. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Felix the Calypso Singer," "And Leave The Greyhounds To Us?," "Security Arms," "Speak For Yourself," "You Saved My Life" and "Where's Grandpa?." Additional Actors: Barbara Colby, Joan Hotchkis, Vito Scotti, Phil Leeds, John Fiedler, Janis Hansen, Ronda Copland, Dale Ishimoto, Guy Lee, Ann Doran, Madge Kennedy, Garry Walberg. Stray Cats The bond between gay men and straight women is explored in this affecting dramedy from the Philippines which chronicles the friendship of Boyet (Ricky Davao) and his neighbor Martha (Irma Adlawan). While Boyet's on-again, off-again boyfriend has a frustratingly flexible sexual identity, Martha has problems of her own managing a long-term romance. Lauren Novoro, Reggie Curley also star. Ariztical Entertainment

Bob Saget That Ain't Right Well-known television personality Bob Saget -- perhaps best known for his portrayal of squeaky-clean TV dad Danny Tanner on "Full House" -- headlines an unpredictable evening of adult-flavored comedy in this raucous stand-up special. Highlights include Saget's performance of "Danny Tanner Is Not Gay," a pop parody set to the tune of the Backstreet Boys' "I Want It That Way," and the music video "Rollin' with Saget" featuring Jamie Kennedy. Warner

Stargate SG-1 Season 10 This sci-fi series really goes where no one has gone before. Though it's not as ingrained in the public consciousness as Star Trek and its spin-offs, Stargate SG-1 outlasted each of the shows in the Gene Roddenberry universe, making it to a landmark ten seasons. Like in the film Stargate, the SG-1 team uses stargates to travel the universe, exploring the stars as they fight the Goa'uld, the Replicators, and the Ori. In the ninth and tenth season, series regular Richard Dean Anderson is only making occasional appearances, but the void is filled by veteran actor Beau Bridges and Farscape alums Ben Browder and Claudia Black. This release includes every episode of the series' tenth season, including fan favorite "200," featuring Anderson and Sex & The City's Willie Garson. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Flesh and Blood," "Morpheus," "The Pegasus Project" and "Insiders." Additional Actors: Robert Picardo, Jodelle Ferland, Tim Guinee, Patrick Gilmore, Robin Mossley, Benjamin Ratner, Chris Bradford, Matthew Glave, Matthew Walker, Gary Jones, David Nykl, Torri Higginson, Sarah Strange, Chelah Horsdal, David Hewlett, Joe Flanigan. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Uninvited," "200," "Counterstrike" and "Memento Mori." Additional Actors: Keegan Connor Tracy, Jodie Graham, Biski Gugushe, Jason Bryden, John Murphy, Gary Jones, Peter DeLuise, Trevor Devall, Julie Johnson, Barbara Kottmeier, Cory Monteith, Isaac Hayes, Richard Dean Anderson, Don S. Davis, Willie Garson, Tony Amendola, Morena Baccarin, Sylvesta Stuart, David Andrews, Richard White, Patricia Harras, Peter Benson, Brian Davies, Don Stark, Sonya Saloma, Brendan Beiser, Phillip Mitchell. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Company of Thieves," "The Quest (Part 1)," "The Quest (Part 2)" and "Line in the Sand." Broken English Stars Posey as Nora Wilder, a thirtysomething whose disastrous dating experiences in the Big Apple have put her on the verge of giving up all hope when it comes to love and happiness. Constant comparisons to her best friend Audrey's (Drea de Matteo) seemingly perfect marriage, and her overbearing mother's (Gena Rowlands) fixations on her single status wear on Nora, making her vulnerable to even the slightest hint of male attention, like the advances she gets from a sexy and famous actor (Justin Theroux) who begins bunking at the chic hotel where she works. After a string of equally failed attempts, Nora starts to wonder if there's something wrong with her. It's at this ultimate low when a visiting Frenchman (Melvil Poupaud) swoops in with charm and aggressively woos Nora, who, despite being filled with reluctance, cannot shake the feeling that this one might be different. Posey displays palpable desperation and convincing loneliness as a woman at the age when societal pressure to settle down reaches a peak. While many chick lit titles have tackled this topic, Cassavetes does so with realism and respect. She infuses her film with great sadness but also hope, making Nora a unique character despite her potentially clichéd predicament. Magnolia

Diana Last Days of a Princess Released 10 years after the tragic 1997 death of Princess Diana of Wales, this controversial documentary recounts the final two weeks of her life through revealing interviews and dramatized reenactments. Highlights include interviews with biographer Andrew Morton; bodyguard Kez Wingfield; Dodi Al-Fayed's father and masseuse; and Jean-François Musa, owner of the Etoile Limousine service. Fox

Through teamwork and determination, the group of teens, played in part by Corbin Bleu (High School Musical) and Hallee Hirsh ("Grey's Anatomy"), tackle one harrowing adventure after another. Discovery Kids

Kickin' It Old Skool A 1980s-pop-culture factoid-infested comedy, Jamie Kennedy stars as Justin Schumacher, a former break-dancing child prodigy, who wakes up 20 years after a disastrously daring dance move left him in a coma. Justin quickly discovers that his hospital bills have put his parents (played by perpetual character actors Debra Jo Rupp and Christopher McDonald) in a financial bind, and he is determined to help them out by getting his old dancing team, the Funky Fresh Boys, together and enter a $100,000 dance contest at the local mall. In between brushing up on his break-dancing and adapting to the technological advances and evolved fashions that surround him, Justin tries to rekindle what he had with his teenage sweetheart, Jenny (Maria Menounos), but unfortunately she is engaged to his childhood arch-nemesis, Kip (Michael Rosenbaum). The pressure is on for Justin to either choose to make up for lost time--win Jen's heart and the dance contest--or accept adulthood and move on. Fox

The Darwin Awards A forensic detective and an insurance claims investigator set out to find what makes potential Darwin Award winners tick in Finn Taylor's dark comedy. Assigned to create a profile for people who accidentally kill themselves in idiotic ways, detective Burrows (Joseph Fiennes) and insurance investigator Siri (Winona Ryder) meet some of the world's most dangerously creative minds. David Arquette, Juliette Lewis and Wilmer Valderrama co-star. Fox

Elvis The Miniseries Golden Globe winner Jonathan Rhys Meyers stars as Elvis in this miniseries that follows the King from his humble beginnings through his rise to superstardom, including his affair with Ann-Margret (Rose McGowan) and management by impresario "Colonel" Tom Parker (Randy Quaid). Elvis's relationships with his mother (Camryn Manheim) and producer Sam Phillips (Tim Guinee) are also dramatized in the first biographical film to use Elvis's master recordings. Anchor Bay

Roseanne Season 8 Season eight of Roseanne continues the legendary series with equal dashes of hilarity and the bizarre. Lecy Goranson returns as Becky, a pregnant Roseanne plays a pregnant Roseanne, and John Goodman (Dan) fills in for a grown up DJ (Michael Fishman). Along the way the loose meat saga continues, Darlene gets married, and Dan has a heart attack. In some ways a foreshadowing of the complete turnaround of season nine, season eight is filled with inside jokes, nods to other historic TV shows, and plenty of self-referential humor. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Shower the People You Love with Stuff," "Let Them Eat Junk," "Roseanne in the Hood," "The Last Date," "Halloween: The Final Chapter" and "The Fifties Show." Additional Actors: Michael O'Keefe, Sandra Bernhard, Natalie West, Estelle Parsons, Pat Harrington Jr., Shecky Greene, Ed McMahon. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "The Getaway, Almost," "The Last Thursday in November," "Of Mice and Dan," "Direct to Video," "December Bride," "The Thrilla Near the Vanilla Extract," "White Sheep of the Family" and "Becky Howser, M.D." Additional Actors: David Strickland, Jenna Elfman, Colleen Camp, Estelle Parsons, Floyd 'Red Crow' Westerman, John Popper, June Lockhart, Norm Crosby, Alexis Arquette, Kathryn Joosten, Stan Freberg, Michael O'Keefe, Fred Willard. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Out of the Past," "Construction Junction," "We're Going to Disney World," "Disney World War II" and "Springtime for David." Additional Actors: Shelley Winters, James Pickens Jr., Fred Willard, John McConnell, Tiny Tim, Estelle Parsons, Eric Dane, James LeGros, J. Robin Miller, Sean O'Bryan. Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "Another Mouth to Shut Up," "Morning Becomes Obnoxious," "Ballroom Blitz," "The Wedding," "Heart & Soul" and "Fights & Stuff." Additional Actors: Jeffrey Nordling, Tony Curtis, Kathryn Joosten, Estelle Parsons, Shelley Winters, Jana Robbins. Anchor Bay

Warner Oland is Charlie Chan Volume 1: Charlie Chan's Secret When the potential heirs of a family fortune develop a nasty habit of getting murdered, it's up to ace sleuth Charlie Chan (Warner Oland) to protect dowager Henrietta Lowell (Henrietta Crosman) from harm. After apparently failing in this task, Chan unlocks even greater mysteries. Gordon Wiles directs this stylish, fast-paced installment of the beloved Charlie Chan series, which features a spooky mansion, sketchy mystics and a hair-raising séance., Charlie Chan on Broadway A New York nightclub singer (Louise Henry) hatches a plan to expose a list of gangsters in her diary. But when she gets murdered and the diary goes missing, Charlie Chan (Warner Oland) and his trusty son Lee (Keye Luke) are on the case. Chan must team up with a smarty-pants reporter and a pretty photojournalist to hunt down the killer in this fun and twist-filled mystery from the beloved detective series., Charlie Chan in the Black Camel "Death is a black camel that kneels unbidden at every gate." These wise, cryptic words come courtesy of beloved movie sleuth Charlie Chan (Warner Oland), who investigates the murder of film starlet Sheila Fayne (Dorothy Revier) in this early installment from the Chan series. Horror icon Bela Lugosi co-stars as the renowned psychic Tarneverro, who confronts Fayne about her dark relationship history. Charlie Chan at Monte Carlo Charlie Chan was the Jessica Fletcher of the 1930s; no matter where he took a vacation, someone got murdered! This time, the wily Chan (Warner Oland) and son Lee (Keye Luke) are on holiday in Monte Carlo when a casino messenger is killed while en route to Paris. The messenger was carrying a million dollars' worth of bonds, which passes through several hands in the course of the film. One of the prime suspects is a Chicago gangster, working incognito as the casino bartender at least until he's bumped off as well. The motivating factor behind all the mayhem is woman-with-a-past Virginia Field, who, though she turns out not to be the killer, is as morally guilty as the genuine culprit. Charlie Chan at Monte Carlo represented Warner Oland's final appearance as the aphorism-spouting oriental detective; he died suddenly in August of 1938. Fox
