Die Hard Ultimate Collection "Die Hard": A New York City policeman, John McClane, visiting his estranged wife and two daughters on Christmas Eve, joins her at a holiday party in the headquarters of the Japanese-owned business she works for. But the festivities are interrupted by a group of terrorists who take over the exclusive high-rise, and everyone in it. Very soon the cop realizes that there's no one to save the hostages -- but him. "Die Hard 2: Die Harder": An action-packed sequel to the 1989 film 'Die Hard.' While former New York City cop John McClane, now a member of the Los Angeles Police Department, waits to pick up his wife in DC's Dulles Airport, gunmen suddenly commandeer the building. They're intent on rescuing a drug-dealing foreign despot who's being brought to the US to stand trial. And once again McClane finds himself enmeshed in a terrorist plot that only he can prevent... "Die Hard with a Vengeance": The third installment of the 'Die Hard' series. Hard-luck New York cop John McClane realizes once again that trouble always has a way of finding him. This time it comes in the form of Simon, whose brother Hans Gruber was the villainous mastermind killed by McClane in the first 'Die Hard.' Simon sets out to avenge Hans's death in a rather perverse manner: periodically, he plants a bomb somewhere in New York City (a subway car or an elementary school, for example). Then he calls McClane with a difficult riddle, and a time allotment for solving it. The answer to the riddle reveals the bomb site. McClane and Zeus, a Black shopkeeper who saves McClane's life and then is forced to join him, wind up in numerous deadly situations as they continuously struggle to save the Big Apple from Simon's bombs. But Simon has other devious plans besides killing McClane: namely to rob the Federal Reserve Bank -- which houses more gold than Fort Knox. Live Free or Die Hard After a twelve-year hiatus, Bruce Willis is back as New York City detective John McClane, who still plays by his own set of rules. Following Die Hard (1988), Die Harder (1990), and Die Hard With A Vengeance (1995), the fourth installment in the popular action series stars Timothy Olyphant as Thomas Gabriel, an evil mastermind who is determined to bring down the entire infrastructure of the United States on Independence Day, sending the country into anarchy and chaos. Joining him on his mission of destruction is the elegant Mai, played by Maggie Q from Mission: Impossible III. McClane becomes involved when he gets caught in the crossfire while transporting prisoner Matt Farrell (Justin Long, most well known as the mac in a series of computer commercials), a hacker extraordinaire who is the perfect complement to the old-school McClane, who eschews cell phones, computers, and doing anything the easy way. But when Gabriel kidnaps McClane's daughter, Lucy it gets personal. Full of the sarcastic humor, exciting action sequences including flying cars -- and fun characters that have defined the series. The Secret Invasion After the Nazis lock up an Italian general who was about to become a turncoat and hand his army over to the Allies, five convicts are given a chance at redemption in exchange for infiltrating enemy territory and rescuing the general. Raf Vallone, Mickey Rooney, Edd Byrnes, Henry Silva and William Campbell play the commandos -- led by British intelligence officer Stewart Granger in this tense World War II drama directed by Roger Corman. Fox

Gomer Pyle Season 4 This spin-off of The Andy Griffith Show featured beloved mechanic Gomer Pyle entering the Marine Corps. Jim Nabors played Pyle, resurrecting the character's catchphrases, including "Surprise, surprise, surprise!" and "Shazam!" said in Pyle's trademark Southern drawl. Jim Nabors's aw-shucks charm highlights the fourth season of this classic sitcom. As always, Gomer's naiveté and good-natured demeanor get the better of Sgt. Carter (Frank Sutton), master of the slow burn. This year, Gomer replaces Carter as the model for a recruiting poster, returns to Mayberry and helps foil a bank robbery, wins a boat in a jingle contest, loses the colonel's German shepherd and attempts to hide a rescued horse at the base. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "A Visit From Aunt Bee," "The Recruiting Poster," "Corporal Carol," "Leader of Men," "Beautiful Dreamer" and "The Great Talent Hunt." Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Gomer Says 'Hey' To the President," "And A Child Shall Lead Them," "The Show Must Go On," "The Better Man," "To Watch a Thief" and "The Prize Boat." Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Friendly Freddy Strikes Again," "Change Partners," "Wild Bull From Pampas," "Gomer, The Good Samaritan," "Gomer, The Privileged Character" and "Gomer Goes Home." Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "A Dog Is A Dog," "Love Finds Gomer Pyle," "Gomer and The Queen of Burlesque," "The Carraige Waits," "Sergeant Iago" and "Goodbye, Dolly." Disc 5 includes the following episodes: "The Price of Tomatoes," "Chef For Day," "Gomer and the Night Club Comic," "Love and Goulash," "And Baby Makes Three" and "Friendly Freddy, The Gentleman's Taylor." Rawhide: Season Three, Volume One Before he became a fixture in the spaghetti Western genre, iconic actor Clint Eastwood shot to fame in the 1950s and '60s television series Rawhide. Considered one of the best TV Westerns of all time, the classic series followed the episodic adventures of a band of rovers hired to drive cattle through the lawless terrain of the 1870s Wild West while encountering both natural and manmade dangers like anthrax and cattle rustlers. Eastwood starred as rover Rowdy Yates, the straight-arrow assistant to a tough-as-nails trail boss, Gil Favor (Eric Fleming), who also presided over trail hands Mushy (James Murdock), Quince (Steve Raines), Nolan (Sheb Wooley), and Wishbone (Paul Brinegar). The team deals with buyers scared off by fears of a failing bank, a new drover who's addicted to morphine, a murderous buffalo soldier and sundry other outlaws, from horse thieves to stagecoach robbers. This collection presents the first half of the cult series' third season. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Incident At Rojo Canyon," "Incident of The Challenge," "Incident At Dragon Crossing" and "Incident Of the Night Visitor." Additional Actors: Nelson Welch, Tom Troupe, Robert Easton, Julie London, Bobby Troup, Michael Pate, Orville Sherman, John Hart, Ann Doran. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Incident of the Slavemaster," "Incident On the Road To Yesterday," "Incident at Superstition Prarie" and "Incident at Poco Tiempo." Additional Actors: John Erwin, Stephen Courtleigh, Andy Albin, Charles Tannen, King Calder, Stephen Joyce, Gregory Walcott. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Incident of the Captive," "Incident of the Buffalo Soldier," "Incident of the Broken Word" and "Incident at the Top of The World." Additional Actors: Dan Sheridan, Joe De Santis, Mercedes McCambridge, Roy Glenn, Woody Strode, Ray Montgomery, Rupert Crosse, Robert Culp, Paul Carr. Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "Incident Near the Promised Land," "Incident of the Big Blowout" and "Incident of the Fish Out of Water." Additional Actors: Don Harvey, Stafford Repp, Mary Astor, Myron Healey, Dorothy Green, Barbara Beard, Jock Gaynor, George D. Wallace, Max Mellinger, Gene Evans. CBS/Paramount

The Odd Couple Season 3 Their characters may have been brought to the big screen by Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau, but Tony Randall and Jack Klugman went on to match, and arguably surpass, their predecessors' portrayals with the classic 1970s television series The Odd Couple. Based on Neil Simon's hit Broadway play of the same name, the beloved sitcom chronicled the charmingly antagonistic friendship between neat freak Felix Unger (Randall) and carefree slob Oscar Madison (Klugman), whose polar-opposite personalities hilariously clashed after they became unwilling roommates following their respective divorces. Produced by TV impresario Garry Marshall (Happy Days, Laverne & Shirley), The Odd Couple stands as one of the true greats in television history. This collection presents the Emmy Award-winning series' third season in its entirety. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Gloria, Hallelujah," "Big Mouth," "The Princess," "The Pen Is Mightier Than the Pencil," "The Odd Monks" and "I'm Dying of Unger." Additional Actors: Elinor Donahue, Penny Marshall, Janis Hansen, Al Molinaro, Shawn Michaels, Howard Cosell, Elliott Reid, Jack Collins, Richard Stahl. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "The Odd Couples," "Felix's First Commercial," "The First Baby," "Oscar's Birthday," "Password" and "The Odd Father." Additional Actors: Jane Dulo, Janis Hansen, Al Molinaro, Brett Somers, Deacon Jones, Arthur Batanides, Louise Troy, Penny Marshall, Elinor Donahue, Betty White. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Don't Believe in Roomers," "Sometimes a Great Ocean," "I Gotta Be Me," "The Ides of April," "Myrna's Debut" and "The Hustler." Additional Actors: Joy Harmon, Marlyn Mason, Penny Marshall, Queenie Smith, Karl Swenson, Cliff Emmich, Vivian Bonnell, Joshua Shelley, Ralph Manza, Louis Guss. Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "My Strife in Court," "Let's Make a Deal," "Take My Furniture, Please" and "The Murray Who Came to Dinner." Additional Actors: Al Molinaro, Elinor Donahue, Jill Jaress, Curt Conway, Garry Walberg, Monty Hall, Titos Vandis, Elvia Allman, Penny Marshall, Bubba Smith, Jane Dulo. CBS/Paramount

The Odd Couple - Fourth Season Their characters may have been brought to the big screen by Jack Lemmon and Walter Matthau, but Tony Randall and Jack Klugman went on to match, and arguably surpass, their predecessors' portrayals with the classic 1970s television series The Odd Couple. Based on Neil Simon's hit Broadway play of the same name, the beloved sitcom chronicled the charmingly antagonistic friendship between neat freak Felix Unger (Randall) and carefree slob Oscar Madison (Klugman), whose polar-opposite personalities hilariously clashed after they became unwilling roommates following their respective divorces. Produced by TV impresario Garry Marshall, The Odd Couple stands as one of the true greats in television history. In this vintage sitcom's fourth season, polar opposites Oscar (Jack Klugman) and Felix (Tony Randall) continue to lock horns while trying to live together. Standout episodes include Felix falling for a woman married to a professional football player (guest Alex Karras) and Oscar winning a new car in a radio contest. Flashback installments show viewers how Felix and his wife ended up in divorce court and how Oscar decided to marry Blanche. This collection presents the Emmy Award-winning series' fourth season in its entirety. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Gloria Moves In," "Last Tango In Newark," "Odd Decathlon," "That Was No Lady," "Odd Holiday" and "The New Car." Additional Actors: Dick Clark, Larry Gelman, Al Molinaro, Janis Hansen, Elinor Donahue, Cliff Norton, Penny Marshall, Patricia Harty, John Byner. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "This is the Army, Mrs. Madison," "The Songwriter," "Felix Directs," "The Pig Who Came To Dinner," "Maid For Each Other" and "The Exorcists." Additional Actors: Al Molinaro, Penny Marshall, Richard Stahl, Elinor Donahue, Jaye P. Morgan, Wolfman Jack, Edward Faulkner, Reta Shaw. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "A Barnacle Adventure," "The Moonlighter," "Cleanliness is Next to Impossible," "The Flying Felix" and "Vocal Girl Makes Good." Additional Actors: Al Molinaro, Penny Marshall, Elinor Donahue, Richard Stahl, John Wheeler, Marilyn Horne, Sondra Currie, Lee Duncan. Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "Shuffling Off to Buffalo," "A Different Drummer," "The Insomniacs," "New York's Oddest" and "One for the Bunny." Additional Actors: Hugh Hefner, Al Molinaro, Jack Collins, Monty Hall, Penny Marshall, Frank Buxton, James Millhollin, Arthur Batanides, Lloyd Kino. Paramount/CBS

Jericho First Season A nuclear explosion plunges a group of Kansas residents into a fraught battle for survival in this post-apocalyptic serial drama. Isolated from the rest of the country in the small town of Jericho, and unsure of the cause behind the explosion, uncertainty and chaos reigns supreme. Chief among the survivors is Jake Green (Skeet Ulrich), a prodigal son who returned to Jericho after his grandfather died. But his uncanny skill with a gun and ability to perform complicated medical procedures provoke troubling questions about his shadowy past. Rifts form among the townsfolk as survival instincts take over, while others fight to maintain order among the ashes. As the series proceeds, its rich ensemble of characters come ever closer to the reasons for the strange new world they are faced with. Originally cancelled by CBS, loyal fans successfully lobbied to have the series continued for a second season. It won't take new viewers long to see what the fuss was about. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Pilot," "Fallout," "Four Horsemen" and "Walls of Jericho." Additional Actors: Erik Knudsen, Sprague Grayden, Beth Grant, Alicia Coppola, Leon Russom, Alex Carter, Richard Speight Jr., Clare Carey, Vic Polizos. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Federal Response," "9:02," "Long Live the Mayor" and "Rogue River." Additional Actors: Alicia Coppola, Beth Grant, Clayne Crawford, Clare Carey, Sprague Grayden, Erik Knudsen, Michael Gaston, D.B. Sweeney, Aasif Mandvi, Theo Rossi. Disc 3 includes the following episodes: "Crossroads," "Red Flag," "Vox Populi" and "The Day Before." Additional Actors: Alicia Coppola, Michael Gaston, Christopher Wiehl, Clare Carey, D.B. Sweeney, Richard Speight Jr., Beth Grant, Andrew Borba, Siena Goines, Mark Adair-Rios, James Parks. Disc 4 includes the following episodes: "Black Jack," "Heart of Winter," "Semper Fidelis" and "Winter's End." Additional Actors: Christopher Darga, John Diehl, Sprague Grayden, Erik Knudsen, Clare Carey, Christopher Wiehl, Erin Daniels, Alicia Coppola. Disc 5 includes the following episodes: "One Man's Terrorist," "A.K.A.," "Casus Belli" and "One if by Land." Additional Actors: Michael Gaston, Christopher Wiehl, Jeff Parise, Siena Goines, Andrew Borba, Terry Maratos, Timothy Omundson, Alicia Coppola, Ned Bellamy, Clare Carey. Disc 6 includes the following episodes: "Coalition of the Willing" and "Why We Fight." Additional Actors: Michael Gaston, Alicia Coppola, Erik Knudsen, Clare Carey, Richard Speight Jr., Timothy Omundson, David Huddleston. Paramount

Jericho Second Season 2 Back from cancellation as a result of vociferous viewer protests, the sci-fi series kicks off its sophomore year with Esai Morales joining the cast as Maj. Edward Beck, a Cheyenne official sent to restore order to the embattled town of New Bern. The season opens in the wake of the costly battle of New Bern, which left neighboring Jericho scrambling to rebuild -- and the two communities still at loggerheads. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Reconstruction," "Condor," "Jennings & Rall" and "Oversight." Additional Actors: Michael Gaston, Sprague Grayden, Esai Morales, D.B. Sweeney, Erik Knudsen, Emily Rose, Aasif Mandvi, Shoshannah Stern, Candace Bailey, Richard Speight Jr. Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Termination For Cause," "Sedition," "Patriots and Tyrants," "Series Finale As Broadcast" and "Series Finale With Alternate Unaired Ending." Additional Actors: Sprague Grayden, Shoshannah Stern, Emily Rose, Esai Morales, Michael Gaston, Richard Speight Jr., Pamela Reed, David Huddleston. Paramount

Popeye & Friends Volume One Spinach--YUCK! But not to the most famous, fearless comic strip sailor in the world--Popeye. Whether romancing his longtime sweetheart, Olive Oyl, rescuing defenseless infant Swee'pea, or wrestling his nasty nemesis, Bluto, Popeye summons his spinach-induced strength to save the day. With one gulp of the vitamin-rich vegetable, Popeye transforms his scrawny body into a human dynamo! For high seas hijinks or landlocked levity, turn to the hilarious animated antics of that two-fisted tar--Popeye. Eight cartoons--including "Abject Flying Object," "Ship Ahoy," "Popeye Goes Sightseeing," "Chips Off the Old Ice Block," and "Polly Wants Some Spinach"--are featured. Warner

Popeye The Sailor 1938-1940 The plot lines in the animated cartoons tended to be simple. A villain, usually Bluto, makes a move on Popeye's "sweetie", Olive Oyl. The bad guy then clobbers Popeye until Popeye eats spinach, which gives him superhuman strength. The fundamental character of Popeye, paralleling that of another 1930's icon, Superman, also invokes traditional values possessing uncompromising moral standards and resorting to force only when threatened, or when he "can't stand no more"! The first volume includes 58 (7-10 min) theatrical blk & white shorts from 1933 to 1938 and 2 two-reeler 20 minute color cartoons. (Notable shorts: * Popeye The Sailor Meets Sindbad The Sailor was an Academy Award® Nominee. Betty Boop appears in a cameo as a hula dancer in the 1st short "Popeye The Sailor") Special Features: Additional Scenes: 24x Eps. Commentaries -Including historians, animators and filmmakers. 2x Bonus Popeye Shorts Est. 1934 "Let's Sing with Popeye", "Popular Science". Documentaries: "Max Fleischer and the New York Style" All New Documentary "I Yam What I Am: The Story of Popeye the Sailor Man", All new documentary. "The Evolution of Animation: The History of the Fleischer Studios" All new documentary. Featurette: 6x Featurettes "Behind the Tunes" In depth look at select cartoons, characters and creators Music Only Track: 12x Music/Vocal Only Tracks (audio Only) Other: 3x Bonus Fleischer Cartoons, 1934 "Poor Cinderella", 1941 "Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy" and 1941 "Superman". Warner

Darfur Now Six Stories. One Hope Documentarian Ted Braun's first theatrical work examines the genocide in Darfur through the eyes of six distinct individuals who are doing what they can to combat the situation. Recent UCLA graduate Adam Sterling is the director of the Sudan Divestment Task Force, which seeks to get states to divest funds in Sudan. Dr. Luis Moreno-Ocampo is an Argentine native serving as the prosecutor of the International Criminal Court at The Hague, where he is investigating Sudanese leaders as war criminals. Ecuadorian Pablo Recalde is the head of the World Food Program in West Darfur, where he risks his life trying to get food to the sick and starving people in the region. Hejewa Adam has taken up arms in her homeland, joining a rebel group defending the Fur people and battling the Janjaweed and government forces. Ahmed Mohammed Abakar was forced to flee his village and is now the leader at a refugee camp in Hamadea, where some 50,000 displaced people live. And Oscar nominee Don Cheadle, after starring in Hotel Rwanda, has written a book, Not On Our Watch, with John Prendergast, that helps people understand genocide--and gives them information on what they can do to stop it. Each of these people is making a difference in Darfur in a different way, through the legal system, legislation, the media, and even violence if necessary, in order to save and protect a people under siege. Darfur Now is not a partisan film; it demonstrates how men and women in all walks of life and with various religious and political beliefs can come together to effect change. The film was begun with a grant from Steven Spielberg's Righteous Persons Foundation. Warner Control is as near perfect a filmic telling of the story of Joy Division and Ian Curtis as any fan could hope for. It's also a beautifully rendered piece of cinema about the crippling effects of love and regret, and the salvation we seek in art. Born out of England's post-Sex Pistols punk explosion, Joy Division played a dark, minimalist version of the nascent sound, and became cult heroes thanks in part to their brilliant yet disturbed frontman Ian Curtis (played by an eerily perfect Sam Riley). Corbijn does a wonderful job recreating the Manchester band's music and live show, cutting straight to the essence of Joy Division's unique appeal. Credit must also be given to the three actors who portray the rest of Joy Division. Playing all the instruments themselves, they perfectly capture the band's powerfully stoic presence, one that translates both live and on record into the sonic equivalent of an existential crisis. Control, however, is ultimately about Curtis's tumultuous marriage with his wife, Deborah (Samantha Morton), and the way that Joy Division became an aesthetic manifestation of his pain--one that was both physical (Curtis was an epileptic) and emotional. Corbijn evokes Curtis's hurt and isolation with both honesty and subtlety: a photographer originally, he frames each shot to look like a stark black-and-white photo from an album the audience was never meant to see, making Curtis's pain palpable and his eventual suicide that much more tragic. The overtones to the later suicide of Kurt Cobain are hard to avoid, but where Cobain's suicide has always been discussed in terms of the pressure he felt as a rock star, Curtis's, as rendered by Corbijn, is a pain anyone could potentially be forced to suffer through. Weinstein/Genius

The 11th Hour Environmental documentary 11th Hour resides at the polar opposite of escapist summer fare, its mission to firmly confront viewers about the indelible human footprint that humans have left on this planet, and the catastrophic effects of environmental neglect and abuse. Produced and narrated by Leonardo DiCaprio, and ably directed by Nadia Conners and Leila Conners Peterson, the documentary doesn't get much fancier than talking heads, news footage, and the occasional animated illustration, but its message is potent and delivered effectively. The first hour of the film is essentially a horror story, recounting the myriad sins perpetrated against the environment (pollution, deforestation, over-mining resources), the reasons behind it (corporate greed, faulty public policy, bad leadership, ignorance), and what it means for the human race. Thankfully, the last third of the movie tilts the mood upward, with a spirited discussion of solutions, offered by a crack team of scientists, designers, and thinkers. Stirring visions of alternate energy sources, diversified transportation, enlightened governmental agendas, sustainable homes and cities, and, most importantly, more conscious consumer choices leave viewers with the palpable feeling that change is both necessary and possible. If the "eleventh hour" for our planet is drawing near, this admirable film points confidently towards a new dawn. Warner

City Slickers Three male friends, facing their 40th birthdays and experiencing midlife crises, decide they need time away from their "soft" city lives. Fans of old Western films, particularly John Wayne's Red River, they decide to vacation at a dude ranch, where they will be responsible for a two-week-long cattle drive through the Colorado hills. Along the way the urban cowboys encounter bad weather; macho, gun-wielding ranchers; and pregnant cattle, but they finish the drive with their lives back on track. Fox

Penn & Teller: Bullshit 5th Season Though they came to fame as magicians, Penn & Teller have turned their comedic talents to TV with Penn & Teller: Bullshit! The duo debunks various popularly held ideas using Penn's acerbic wit (Teller is famously silent) and interviews with experts. With humor, intelligence, and a refreshing lack of tact, the fifth season covers such touchy topics as obesity, immigration, and Wal-Mart. Since Showtime is its broadcast home, Penn & Teller are free to curse and cover controversial topics with abandon in this Emmy-nominated series. Proving there are two sides to every debate, magician-comedians Penn & Teller continue to take a critical (and often very funny) look at today's hot-button topics in this cable series. In Season 5, the Mutt and Jeff of magic take on everything from America's love-hate relationship with Wal-Mart to the magic of colonics (with a visit to an inflatable walk-through colon), America's obesity epidemic (hosting the Fat Guy Olympics) and more. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Obesity," "Wal-Mart," "Breast Hysteria," "De-Toxing" and "Exorcism." Disc 2 includes the following episodes: "Immigration," "Handicap Parking," "Mt. Rushmore," "Nukes, Hybrids & Lesbians" and "Anger Management." Paramount/CBS

Heroes of the East A Chinese man (Gordon Liu) and a Japanese woman (Yūko Mizuno) enter into an arranged marriage, but what begins as a happy union starts to unravel when their clashing styles of martial arts trigger a family feud. The husband must then prove the worth of Chinese kung fu in a series of duels with seven Japanese fighters. The sparks fly, and so do the swords, spears, kicks and punches in this playful entry from the Shaw Brothers catalog. Weinstein/Genius

Meerkat Manor Season 3 By the end of the second season of Meerkat Manor, dominant matriarch Flower proved just how cold a mother can be when it comes to the breaching of breeding policies. Now, after abandoning her own daughter, Mozart, and her offspring, leaving them open for a deadly attack, the tragedy continues as Flower finds herself the victim of a snake bite and Mozart forms her own opposing tribe, the Starsky. Will the matriarchal torch finally be passed after more than two seasons? Meanwhile, the Whisker family as a whole encounters their most formidable enemies yet in the Zappa tribe, and former Whisker Maybelline leaves the clan to build her own army. All is fair in meerkat love and war. Narrated by Sean Astin, this cutthroat third season of the nature-reality series will leave fans flabbergasted. Genius

Meerkat Manor The Story Begins Whoopi Goldberg lends her sultry pipes as the narrator of this feature film prequel to the beloved television series about a family of meerkats. Flower, the star meerkat, is introduced as a young pup who will eventually grow up to be the matriarch fans know from the show. Like in the series, the story is told in a narrative form, creating character identities and relationships but using actual footage of the movie stars in their wild habitat. Genius

The Carmen Miranda Collection: Whether it's as the Brazilian Bombshell, the Lady in the Tutti Frutti hat, or simply by the iconic image of her ornate headdress, Carmen Miranda is a pop culture phenomenon that everyone knows. This collection includes five of the Portuguese performer's most popular musicals, with Doll Face, Greenwich Village, If I'm Lucky, Something For The Boys, and a newly re-mastered version of Busby Berkeley's The Gang's All Here. Supplemented by a fruitful bevy of documentaries, this collection of films gives fans the amazing opportunity to experience Miranda in a way that's never been so vivid, and, for those who have only known her through her culturally pervasive likeness, now is the perfect time to fall in love with her films for the very first time. The Gangs All Here Showgirl Edie (Alice Faye) is wooed by playboy soldier Andy (James Ellison) while he's on military leave, but then discovers when Andy returns home that he's been promised to a rich debutante in an arranged marriage. Edie will have to turn on all her charms to make Andy realize she's the only one for him. Carmen Miranda (singing "Tutti Frutti") and jazz great Benny Goodman add pizzazz to Busby Berkeley's colorful song-and-dance extravaganza., Something For The Boys Three cousins (Carmen Miranda, Phil Silvers, Vivian Blaine) inherit a run-down Southern plantation. When an army sergeant (Michael O'Shea) hatches a plan to save the estate by converting it into a home for military wives, all that's needed is money to fix up the place. What else is there to do except...put on a show! Perry Como, Sheila Ryan co-star; songs include "Samba Boogie," "In the Middle of Nowhere." If I'm Lucky Harry James stars in this delightful musical, playing the bandleader for a group involved with promoting a political candidate's campaign. When the group's lead singer falls in love and decides he wants nothing more to do with politics, the candidate's operatives threaten to soil his reputation if he leaves. Remake of the 1935 film "Thanks a Million" co-stars Perry Como, Vivian Blaine, Phil Silvers, and Carmen Miranda., Greenwich Village A composer (Don Ameche) seeking to make his mark in the classical genre teams up with a '20s New York speakeasy owner (William Bendix) who wants to use Ameche's work as part of a lavish--if less prestigious--Broadway production. Romantic musical co-stars Carmen Miranda and, as the singer both men fall for, Vivian Blaine; songs include "I'm Just Wild About Harry" and "Whispering." & Doll Face This 1945 musical proves it's best not to underestimate a pretty face, especially if the woman is Doll Face Carroll (Vivian Blaine), a stripper who's dying to go legit and star in a Broadway show. When no one takes her seriously, she and her manager (Dennis O'Keefe) hit upon the idea that she write her memoir, hoping to rustle up publicity so publishers will come knocking at her door. But pity the fool who tells her she can't write it herself. Fox

Jumper Leaps onto the screen courtesy of director Doug Liman. David (Hayden Christiansen) has inexplicably been given the power to teleport himself, or jump. He can jump into a bank vault, then to the top of the Sphinx, then back to his luxury Manhattan apartment. But despite all his power, he still misses his childhood love, Millie (Rachel Bilson, THE O.C.). When the opportunity arises, David jets off to Rome with Millie, but it's not all romance in the Italian city. David's unique abilities place him in the middle of a war between the jumpers and the paladins, a secretive group intent on hunting down the teleporters. Led by Roland (Samuel L. Jackson), the paladins track David and fellow jumper Griffin (Jamie Bell) across the world, and Millie may be caught in the crossfire. Jumper moves as fast as its teleporting hero, condensing the novel into a slim, action-packed offering. The slick special effects and impressive locations are certainly on par with Liman's previous work in The Bourne Identity and Mr. Smith, but Jumper bears a closer resemblance to comic book adaptations. Like Spider-Man and most other costume-clad protagonists with unearthly abilities, David grapples with his newfound talents. But unlike his tights-and-cape-wearing brethren, David doesn't use his ability for the greater good. Instead, it gets him piles of money and, perhaps, the girl he's been dreaming of since he was five years old. Though most action films are driven by the struggle between good and evil, Jumper interestingly offers up a central character who lies somewhere in the middle. Fox

The Signal Much like 28 Days Later, The Signal is a zombie film in disguise asking the question, "What would you do if everyone suddenly turned psychotic?" Conceived by Atlanta filmmakers Jacob Gentry, Dan Bush, and David Bruckner as an exercise in which each would write and direct one of three acts, the result is an experimental and apocalyptic horror tale with a for-fans-by-fans mentality that is cerebral and visceral, both disturbing and thought-provoking. In the first segment, it is New Year's Eve in the city of Terminus, and Mya (Anessa Ramsey) has just begun an extramarital affair with Ben (Justin Welborn). As she leaves his apartment, he turns on the television to witness a noisy and colorful swirl. The mysterious transmission affects all television, radio, and cell phone signals, causing normal citizens to transform into bloodthirsty killers. By the time Mya reaches her apartment, her building is littered with corpses, and her husband, Lewis (A.J. Bowen), shows the first signs of the condition, causing Mya to flee for safety. Part two is a bleak domestic comedy in which Lewis, searching for his wife, invades the home of a young couple preparing for a party only to kill several potential guests. In the final segment, Ben and Lewis traverse an intensely chaotic landscape in a race to find Mya. With this artful and hard-hitting creation, Gentry, Bush, and Bruckner, have tried to cover all the bases, right down to an amusingly grotesque Re-Animator homage in the final act. Though clearly a low-budget production (we never see destruction on a very wide scale), the film overcomes such limitations with an intensity that lasts throughout the duration, and the cast of unknowns enhances the creepiness of the proceedings. Right from its opening sequence--a creepy film-within-a-film--The Signal establishes itself as one for horror aficionados. Magnolia

Gunsmoke: Second Season, Volume Two James Arness vaulted into the annals of television history with his iconic portrayal of U.S. Marshal Matt Dillon in the long-running television Western GUNSMOKE. Armed with a quick draw and an even quicker wit, the principled and intelligent Marshal Dillon brought peace and righteousness to the lawless frontier of 1800s Dodge City with the help of his trusted deputy, Chester Goode (Dennis Weaver), his friend Doc Adams (Milburn Stone), and saloon keeper Miss Kitty (Amanda Blake). This collection presents the second volume of the series' second season. U.S. Marshal Matt Dillon (James Arness) continues to keep the peace in Dodge City in these episodes from the second season. After he kills three men, Dillon is plagued by nightmares that prompt him to reconsider his calling; a Washington bureaucrat challenges Dillon's authority; and a visiting photographer becomes a murder suspect. Guest stars include Jack Kelly, Sebastian Cabot and Russell Johnson. Disc 1 includes the following episodes: "Bloody Hands," "Skid Row," "Sweet and Sour," "Cain," "Bureaucrat" and "Last Fling." 7th Heaven - Sixth Season The heartwarming television dramedy 7th Heaven blends sometimes outlandish comic situations with dramatic plotlines about serious social issues into a positive affirmation of family values and Christian morality. Produced by Aaron Spelling, the series centers on an all-American family headed by Reverend Eric Camden (Stephen Collins) and his stay-at-home wife, Annie (Catherine Hicks), as they struggle with the daily stresses and joys of parenting. Meanwhile, the Camdens' seven children--oldest son Matt (Barry Watson), Mary (Jessica Biel), Lucy (Beverley Mitchell), Simon (David Gallagher), youngest daughter Ruthie (Mackenzie Rosman), and twins Sam and David (real-life twins Lorenzo and Nikolas Brino)--navigate the trials and tribulations of growing up with wholesome aplomb. The Camdens face a hectic year in this family drama's sixth season as Mary (Jessica Biel) tries to solve her problems by leaving town, returning to attend college with Lucy (Beverley Mitchell) and then moving away again. Meanwhile, Matt (Barry Watson) gets accepted at a prestigious medical school and plans to marry his Jewish girlfriend, forcing his Christian pastor father (Stephen Collins) to confront some difficult questions. This collection presents every episode of the family drama's sixth season, full of changes and lessons learned. Disc 1 includes episodes:

Flawless A erious account of a remarkable heist at London Diamond, one of the world's premier diamond holders. Set in 1960s London, the film focuses on Laura Quinn (Demi Moore), a woman so driven she's chosen career over personal life and found her way into the boys' club known as the diamond business. As Laura gets overlooked for a manager position year after year, she resolves to work even harder, hoping that, despite her history, her efforts will one day pay off. Ironically, it's Mr. Hobbs (Michael Caine), a night janitor, who takes note of Laura's frustration. The seemingly simple Mr. Hobbs finds a way to use this to his advantage, proposing a plan that will only work with Laura's cooperation. When Laura rejects the offer, Mr. Hobbs encourages her to question just what's holding her back, personally and professionally. While Laura's precarious position within a male-dominated world gives her understandable motive, Mr. Hobbs's is trickier to decipher. The story is based on a fictional heist, but the film is faithful to its setting. Manolia

Come Drink With Me When bandits kidnap his son, the governor sends his daughter Golden Swallow (Pei-Pei Cheng) to the rescue. With the help of a local beggar known as Drunken Cat (Hua Yueh), Golden Swallow tracks down the main perpetrator, the evil monk Jade Faced Tiger (Hung Lieh Chen). Hailed as a pioneering classic of Hong Kong martial arts cinema, director King Hu's action hit features a butt-kicking turn by the 19-year-old Cheng. Weinstein / Genius

Patton is a three-dimensional bronze bust of World War II field general George S. Patton (George C. Scott) who wrote poetry, fired pistols at strafing fighter planes, and loved America with a lofty and historical zeal. Tracing his personal rivalries with such generals as Rommel and Montgomery, his problematic treatment of his own men, and his nearly runaway contempt for diplomacy, the film triumphs as an enduring portrait of a complex and larger-than-life figure. Patton was recipient of 10 Academy Award Nominations and winner of eight, including Best Picture, Best Director, Best Actor--Scott, Best (Adapted) Screenplay--Francis Ford Coppola/Edmund H. North. The Sand Pebbles One of the most exciting and heart-wrenching epics ever made, The Sand Pebbles is a masterpiece of storytelling, with exceptional performances by a stellar cast. The complex tale begins simply enough in 1926 China, where a group of American soldiers are patrolling the Yangtze River on a gunboat called the San Pablo. The crew members, who call themselves Sand Pebbles, includes Jake Holman (Steve McQueen), a dispassionate but capable navy machinist, and his only friend, Frenchy (Richard Attenborough), a sailor in love with an English-educated Chinese girl, Maily (Marayat Andriane), who has been sold into prostitution. Strong feelings of nationalism have been sweeping through China, however, and when Chiang Kai-shek moves against the feudal warlords, the United States decides to treat the upheaval as a civil war, and the San Pablo is ordered to confine its function to protection of American civilians in the area. Included among them are Mr. Jameson (Larry Gates), a missionary, and Shirley Eckert (Candice Bergen), a schoolteacher with whom Jake falls in love. Soon Jake finds himself in the middle of an international military crisis when his native assistant, Po-han (Mako), is brutally tortured in an attempt to draw the San Pablo's fire, and the boat's inexperienced and prideful captain (Richard Crenna) wants to give his humiliated ship and disgraced crew a chance for glory. Battle of Britain A powerful, colourful and star-studded re-creation of the epic 1940 battle that took place in the skies over England. Surprised and understaffed, the British forces used determination and guile to valiantly hold off the superior forces of the German Luftwaffe in the early days of World War II. If England had lost, the Germans may very well have won the war. The incredible cast includes Michael Caine, Robert Shaw, Curt Jurgens, and Laurence Olivier, in a no-expense-spared production featuring stunning airborne dog-fight sequences. Starring Michael Caine, Christopher Plummer, Laurence Olivier, Ian McShane, Kenneth More, Robert Shaw, Trevor Howard, Susannah York, Harry Andrews, Curt Jurgens. Fox

The Longest Day With four directors and an all-star cast, this Academy Award-winning war epic from producer Darryl F. Zanuck chronicles World War II's harrowing D-Day invasion. Shot on the beaches of Normandy, France, the ambitious film attempts to cover the historic day from all perspectives, focusing on figures from both sides of the conflict. The who's-who ensemble cast is led by John Wayne, Sean Connery, Robert Mitchum and Henry Fonda, just to name a few. Mrs. Doubtfire Daniel Hillard (Robin Williams, August Rush) is a talented voice over actor with a moral compass and a loving father to his three children. When he throws a birthday party for his son without his wife Miranda's (Sally Field, Steel Magnolias) knowledge, she takes it as the last straw and divorces her husband. At the custody hearing, the judge only allows Daniel to see his three children every Saturday, definitely not enough time in Daniel's mind. When he discovers that his wife is looking for a housekeeper, he employs the help of his brother Frank (Harvey Fierstein, Independence Day) to transform him through body suits, a wig, false teeth, make-up, and glasses into an aging English housekeeper dubbed "Mrs. Doubtfire." His uncanny acting skills put to the ultimate test, Daniel manages to get the job and fool his wife and children completely. He must deal with his court liaison, find a job, learn to accept (or choose to harass) his ex-wife's new boyfriend Stu (Pierce Brosnan, The Tailor of Panama), and learn how to keep house, all the while maintaining his secret identity.
